Profile

This candidate is currently helping 3 different clients on their journey over to the cloud. He designs and architects solutions that fits best with his clients technical needs, then drives the migration to completion.

In his previous role, this candidate started out as a developer and worked his way up to sales. It was a brand new company, so he decided to build out the IT department and create it by himself. He was even the one who introduced AWS to the company. By doing this, he became the IT lead of the company and was in charge of all things AWS within the company.

This candidate is AWS Certified Solutions Architect - Associate.
